PAST PROGRAMS

MEET MARTY

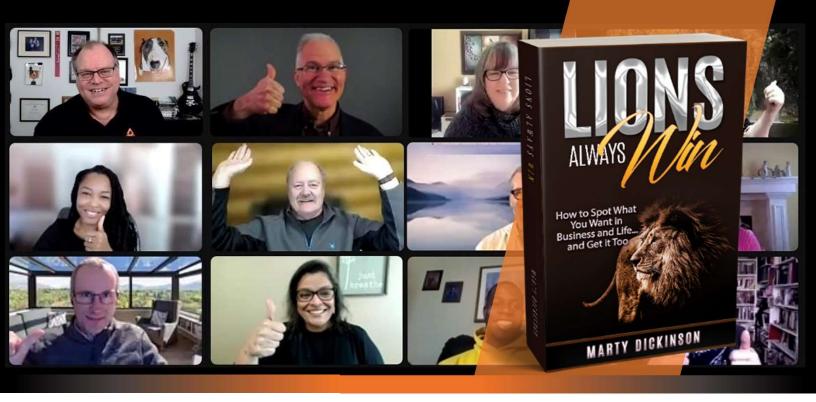

Marty Dickinson is the founder of Speakers Speak LIVE, a weekly, international, virtual live event for professional speakers to practice their speaking and event facilitation skills. The format inspires participants to keep a positive mindset, collaborate with a wide diversity of attendees, and communicate effectively with internationally dispersed members in planning for, and conducting, a successful professional meeting. He has also mentored hundreds of working professionals and students to overcome their fear of public speaking. Marty believes employees of any company, from line workers to management, can benefit from adopting his community-driven presentation practice skills development format.
